Meaning (from TK Govinda Rao's book)

I always ("sathatham") seek shelter ("aashrayaami") in Budha, who is worshipped ("vinutham") by Celestials ("sura"). Who is the son ("sutham") of the Moon (Chandra) and Taaraa.

Who is revered ("vedhitham") by the learned ones ("budhajanair") and brings joy ("modhitham") to Bhusuras. He is the bestower ("pradham") of the sweet ("madhura") art of poetry ("kavithaa"), the one of splendid ("mahaneeya") wealth ("ampadam").

Who is brightly colored ("dyuthim") like ("sama") saffron ("kunkuma"). Whose form gives delight ("mudhaakrithim") to Guruguha. He is the enemy ("vairinam") of Kuja and He is the wearer ("dharam") of a gem-studded crown ("manimakuta"), necklace ("haara"), armlets ("keyura") and bracelets ("kankana"). He is the lord of the houses ("kamaneeyatara") of Mithuna (Gemini) and Kanya (Virgo). He has a book ("puataka") in hand ("karam"). He is of a neuter gender ("napumsaka"). He is honored ("mahitham") by his attendants ("kinkarajana"). He is devoid ("rahitham") of all sins ("kilbishaadi") and bestows benefits ("hitham") on the devotees ("bhaktha") of Shiva ("shankara"). He is always joyous ("sadaananda sahitham").
