Meaning: (From TK Govinda Rao's book)

O Goddess Meenakshi, the daughter ("maatangi") of sage Maatanga, please protect me ("maamava"). You hold ruby studded ("manikya") Vallaki Vina in your hand and speak mellifluously ("madhuravaani"). Your dark hair resembles the swarm of bees ("varaali veni"). She is the pulsating joyous ("sukhasphurthi") form ("rupini") of Somasundareshwara. She is the dark hued ("shyaame") one. She is Shankari, who has the glory of being victorious ("digvijaya") over all the cardinal directions ("prataapini"). She is adorned ("bhushani") with ornate gem-studded golden("hema") jewels ("ratna"). She resides in the hearts ("hrudaagaarini") of Siva ("eesha") and guruguha. She is the foremost in bestowing ("vitaranadhorini") the desired boons ("kaamithaartha") on her devotees. She drenches her devotees with the shower ("paripurani") of nectar ("amruta") of compassion ("kaarunya"). She obliterates bad qualities such as desires ("kaama") and anger ("krodha"). She resides ("vihaarini") in the forest ("aanana") of Kadamba.
